AKBAR 1990

This is the story of the magnificent Arab horse named AKBAR, born in 1990 at Martial BOISSEUIL's farm. He was bought as a foal the same year by Renée KOCH owner of Haras du Maury. Having taken advantage of green meadows of the French southwest, AKBAR was bought by Doc YAHYA on behalf of an UMM QUWAIN owner in UAE, who entrusted him to Safi. DEEB his trainer, with whom he became famous on the UAE and Qatar racetracks with 14 Wins and 23 Places on 40 Races.

His sire is the illustrious DJELFOR (MANGANATE) 7 Races 5 Wins 2 places sire of multiple Gr WINNERS. DJELFOR's dam, DJEBELLA II (BADR BEDUR) produced : DJEL DUR 1977 (MANGANATE), DANDOURA 1978 (MANGANATE) DJALA 1981 (MANGANATE), DJELABA (MANGANATE), DIRAM 1989 (MANGANATE) & DJEL BON 1990 (MANGANATE).

DJELFOR 1984 By MANGANATE & DJEBELLA

FANTASIA 1972 By GOSSE DU BEARN & FLEUR D'AVRIL

AKBAR's 1st dam, FANTASIA 1972 (GOSSE DU BEARN) produced : FAYOUM 1978 (MANGANATE), FLASKA 1979 (MANGANATE), KALILA 1986 (DJOURAS TU), AZIHADE 1988 (DJOURMAN), ZULEIMA 1989 (DJOURMAN) & SHEENA 1991 (DJELFOR).

AKBAR's 2nd dam, FLEUR D'AVRIL 1956 (MEKE), produced : FLIPPER 1968 (GOSSE DU BEARN) sire of TIDJANI, NEVADOU & NIVADA & FLEUR DU BEARN (GOSSE DU BEARN) dam of FILOU, FLORALIE & FLEUR DU CASSOU.

After his race career AKBAR was bought back by the French National Stud, of which he was one of the Star Stallions, as evidenced by the high quality of his get.

Unfortunately in 2014 he was sacrificed during ARQANA sales. Mr Alessandro MARTINAZZI an Italian breeder from MALEGNO had the intelligence to buy him, and he assures that this legendary Stallion will live out the rest of his life with the dignity he deserves.

THE ABITA DYNASTY

The first remarkable pedigrees of Haras de Saint Dominique was the Tunisian lines among which : the Sires IBN, RAIS, LOUBIEH, BANGO, DUC, KRISS II and the mares HALOUA, TOSCA II, DJENIA, IJABA, ROUMANA and IKAMA. were being honored at the racecourse with the draughtboard colors, first colors of the family, even in France the Arabian races were only stammering.

Lucien ABITA

Lucien & Pierre ABITA

Pierre & Philippe ABITA

It took a rather long time to adapt to that, before Pierre and Philippe ABITA return to Arabian horses. And that is in 1977 after the Sow in Marseille that the decision was taken, after having bought an Tunisian stallion, the ABITA family decide to invest in a spanish mare ; MERIDIENNE by ABUL BEKA & PENUMBRA by BAMBU (MAQUILLO) which produced MARAHBA el SABAH (ALIDAAR) 4th the in World Championship in Paris 1995. The Haras de Saint Dominique would reconnect with the success. Then Philippe mixed the spanish lines with Egyptian lines like: PASHA FARID, MAHAL LAZAR, SALAA EL DINE, ANSATA REBECCA, HALIMS ASMARA ALIDAAR etc...

MERIDIENNE

Like many French settled in North Africa, the ABITA family was forced in the 60's to join France, and it is in Provence in Saint Christol d'Albion near Carpentras that Pierre ABITA decided to settle down with his family. It is in 1972 that Philippe ABITA the current head of the stud was born.

THREE GENERATIONS OF ABITA

DJEHLBI

DJEHLBI – performance lines to improve ability. The product of over 100 years of French Arabian breeding.

For those wanting to inject some athletic ability and agility into their performance line – here are the bloodlines to do just that.

Arabian racing and endurance are the largest growth equine sports in the world today. Consider such an impressive athletic sire as Djehlbi who has proven himself worthy to stand at stud. Undefeated on the race track, winner of the 2014 Shadwell Stallions Arabian Plate at 1800mtrs and the 2015 Sheikh ZBS Al NAHYAN Cup at 1300mtrs.

DJEHLBI is beautiful to handle and stamps his progeny with his looks, ability and nature. He is all class; the first French horse to arrive in Australia offering new and exciting blood.

He is available for AI or natural cover at Beerseva Performance Horse Stud, Allora in Queensland, Australia. For more information, Email: beersheva88@gmail.com

ENDURANCE in ITALY

By Gianluca SCALFI

In Italy, equestrian endurance started many years ago, and from begin untill 1999, competitions was under managment of "Ante" association (today called Fitetrec-Ante). From 2000 endurance races passed under administration on FISE, the Italian Federation of Equestrian Sports, but we have to note that only from 2004, races results have been digitize and recorded so only beginnig from that year, we have possibility to have reliable data to evaluate. All data are contained in the "Repertorio Fise" the only official archive available in Italy, this is also the source of our information.

Based on Repertorio Fise information, in the period 2004-2012 (conventionally considered "past"), we can already notice the massive influence of the pure arabian horses in Italian endurance competitions, expecially on long distance over 100km.

Period: 2004-2012 - All endurance competitions in Italy.

Total horses competitors:	About which: Pure Arabians	About which: Other Breed
5.705	1.995	3.710
Percentage of Pure Arabian Horses: 35,0 %

Period: 2004-2012 - Competitions in Italy of 100km or more

Total horses competitors:	About which: Pure Arabians	About which: Other Breed
893	449	3.710
Percentage of Pure Arabian Horses: 50,3 %

INCANDESCENCE By TIDJANI x TAJHIANE By NADEJNI
After Endurance career, mare at GMC stud - Italy

At the beginning, endurance riders, in most cases, was passionate of country-riding, that started to try endurance competitions with their own country-horses, but in few time everybody understood the best abilities of Arabian horse in long distance races, so lot of riders opted for this breed, usually using horses retired from flat competitions (many times imported from east Europe especially Poland) or directly from arabian show events. This explain the high percentage of the upon table.

In these years, which in was not present in Italy specific endurance stud farm, the owner, always not professional (everybody had different working activity) was a complete figure, that was also the rider, the trainer and the organizer of all endurance activities, but in any case we had in Italy already prestigious and important competitions as for exemple, Italian Championship of Tavernelle (PG) in 2000, with massive participation of foreign riders, or in 2003 the World Young Rider Championship located at the "Pratoni del Vivaro", at the Italian Equestrian Federation Centre, in Rome province.

As we said, there were not professionalists of Endurance (meaning like riders that only worked with horses) but many Italian riders raced very well competitions all around Europe and, for example, Italian team won silver medal at World Championship in 2002 at Jerez de la Frontera in Spain.

Today, (we conventionally consider the period 2013-2015), we are very happy to notice that endurance in Italy is becoming a more popular sport and continue to involve an increasing number of passionate.

Just for the statistics, we can also see that comparing to previous years, the influence of Pure Arabian is always increasing and, especially in competitions over 100km, the percentage reaches the important value of 59,8%, even if we must consider two factors to evaluate this data: in the last year we have more Arabian horses officially registered in the stud book (previously there were more horses actually Arabian but not registered), and, factor more significant and important, there is more information and sensibility about specific endurance genealogy with consequence more selection and more quality of horses in the competitions.

Period: 2013-2015 – All endurance competitions in Italy.

Total horses competitors:	About which: Pure Arabians	About which: Other Breed

With reference to what just said, in the last year has consequently born in Italy some "small" stud farms that, starting from imported mares (France, Poland, etc..) are beginning to breed specific high quality endurance genealogies. This is something innovative in our country because, as said before, in the past, endurance horses was breed first of all for flat competitions or show events. This breeding program will permit also to consider alternative markets and not only Italian one, which is, in any cases increasing, in number of passionate and more informed and demanding riders.

Thereby, we can also notice in the last years, the establishment and the presence of new professional figures, like specific endurance grooms, trainers, farriers, veterinaries etc.. that work not only for Italian Team but even for foreign owners.

All these factors let us watch at the future with lot of optimism. We have strong new required of always more specific information from passionate and riders and we believe that this will be the engine to constantly improve all the sector. We still have expert riders and also very good young riders that have already well done in International competition. We will have a new emerging endurance horse generation and we are sure, that we will have all the possibility in the next year to participate at European compentition finally like protagonist!

WARSAW - POLAND

W.A.H.Racing Conference
On 2015.May.27/31

There are even global international events that repeat every year with strength and reason to be for the entire horse industry importance, this should have been the case as regards the sector of races for Arabian horses.

Nearly four hundred guests from the international diaspora from the industry were again invited to attend a high mass in a megalomaniac Version proven.

Several sessions were scheduled over the endlessly long days, with topics again redundant, repetitive making no matter where current information or yet many questions arise for an activity that knows like others, difficulties survival.

If stakeholders' designated office for the first session Livestock presentations were loud enough when the subject was discussed embryo transfer some of which support the new technologies related to livestock, for other most of the Gulf countries making rightly pointed vigorously religious connotation and traditional to whom we must allow nature to practice, cross discussions summarizing the costs increasingly difficult to bear in these exchanges the French representative at the podium was entangled in false invalidations, happily surrendered to the reality of the facts that is a good expert Jean Pierre DEROUBAIX.

Very little exciting in the order of the day, ' Racing and Training' as the third entitled " Weight and Control ' despite the quality of some characters who have mastered perfectly their activity, nothing new has been communicated to delegates for these topics.

The following have not made real progress on the needs of breeders and owners of Arabian horses to orienteering, an animator who traveled from his native Australia failed captivated the few in the room for time a session given to women in the middle of the races.

The only existential appeal of this conference has undoubtedly been the trading session with the audience this time being many in the room, returning about matters raised but remained without real answers, exchanges were fairly sharp mainly with one of vehement members Ifhar which has lost its retention.

The reciprocity issue of access to its borders with health regulations which are far from being in harmony especially between brother countries, hence in the current context how is it possible to internationalize the races despite the financial impact deployed by the Gulf emirate that bills itself as the World Capital for Arab horses.

His spokesman heard with shock words if they withdrew , the whole Arab world horse racing industry would collapse , a very personal vision when we know that other wealthy countries are pending to resume sponsorship of the 108 races supported by the organizers of the Festival of Races for Arabian horses.

If the first of these laudable initiative encounters and can be hailed for the idea, the conclusion relating to the 6th World Conference has not pleased the hearts of guests who unfortunately do not hesitate to say behind the scenes, it becomes routine, tiring and without major interest to the reality of the moment.

The 7th Conference was proudly announced in 2016 in Rome, the Italian capital will have very many delights and charms that will offset the weakness of the organization if nothing is updated for all professionals related to the Arab horse races through the world.

GALAPO PROBIOTIC EMKA-F Horse Probiotic Concentrate made of fermented Fruits Vegetables and Herbs

About Galapo probiotic EMKA-F Horse

Galapo probiotic EMKA-F Horse is a purely natural plant concentrate made of fermented herbs, fruits and vegetables. The plants are selected on base of their ingredients. EMKA-F Horse can be used as daily supplement for horses or periodically to support immune system, metabolism and digestion of horses.

The plants used for the production are especially rich in antioxidants (vitamin C, beta-carotene, vitamin E, flavonoids etc.). In some plants the whole plants are used, meaning not only leaves but also e.g. branches. This is done because horses do not only need minerals and vitamins, they also need secondary plant products such as flavonoids, bitter compounds, mucilages, essential oils which their natural diet provides through herbs, shrubs, roots etc. Most horses do not have access to these plants, many of which are used in EMKA-F Horse.

After harvesting the plants are cut up by hand and fermented in a special process. The result is a fruity, slightly bitter probiotic juice with a ph level around 3,8. The acidic environment guarantees a stable environment in which no pathogenic germ can survive.

Why Fermentation?

For hundreds of years foods have been preserved by fermentation. The plants themselves carry a million of microorganisms that work in the fermentation process, in order to keep the process stable we add a very small amount of starter bacteria (lactobacillus plantarum complies with the EC regulation on food additives for animal foods). Fermentation is not only a very smart and solely natural process of food preservation, it works without high heat and the microorganisms process the plants in a way that the organism can easily take them in - as if pre-digested. Byproducts of the fermentation process are vitamins, organic acids, minerals, enzymes, amino acids and antioxidants.

Production

The whole process is manual, from harvesting to bottling the product. Galapo probiotic uses only plants originating in controlled cultivation, mainly home-grown. After 7-10 days of fermentation the concentrate is filtered twice and bottled. After this, fermentation can continue in the bottle. As a result there can be white residue on top (from yeast organisms) or slight sparkle – both effects are natural and do not effect the quality of the product. After fermentation the residue of the production is used as natural compost.

The Product

Through the fermentation process the valuable ingredients of the used plants stay intact. The microorganisms process the sugar contained by the plants which makes the end product better digestible. Active microorganisms regenerate the intestinal flora and the processed plant ingredients are better absorbed by the organism. The product contains a huge variety of microorganisms.

Dosage:

100ml – 250ml over food or directly into the mouth

Storability: If properly stored closed bottles can be stored up to 6 months

Use: Permanent or as cure over a minimum period of 8 weeks

Storage:

- Closed lid, dark, cool (not necessarily fridge)
- EMKA-F Horse is an "active" product, meaning the fermentation can continue in the bottle, the product can develop white spots and a sparkle. Both do not effect quality.
- Ph level is around 3,8 and should not be higher than 3,9

About us:

Galapo Probiotic products is an Austrian family run operation that produces agricultural, natural, probiotic products for humans and animals. The whole production is done by hand and in Austria. Galapo probiotic produces food supplements and care products for humans and animals, all of them based on the fermented plant concentrate. The owners, Mrs. Ursula Zeipper and Daniela Vadehra combine versatile professional backgrounds. Ursula Zeipper, responsible for production and creation has worked for more than 30 years as a researcher at the pharmaceutic chemical institute of Graz University and ran a stud farm for race horses (and bred dogs) for 25 years. Daniela Vadehra, responsible for distribution and marketing worked as PR manager and owns a sport horse breeding farm as well. Hands-on-experience with breeding horses as well as training sport horses and the approach of keeping horses as healthy as possible in the most natural way initiated the creation of these probiotic products.

We are registered as animal food producers with the Austrian food agency AGES.

ARABIAN STRAINS and the MYTHOLOGIE OF TYPE

Part II

Mu'Wajj

Handsome, refined small pretty heads (which I take to mean dished). Described as like Seglawi but not as high quality.

Rabdan

Seglawi in type but with Muniqi racing legs and plain narrow heads. I had trouble interpreting this description, I suppose its possible the rump and neck are more rounded therefore the Seglawi reference. Chestnuts between 14.2-15.2hh.

Rishan

Delicate, elegant and small (under 14.1hh) with very pretty heads.

Sa'dan

Long and rangy like the Miniqi but with rounded lines like the Seglawi and broad in the chest and hindquarters like the Kuhailan. The bones are described as too fine for the body and the heads are narrow and small eyed. Height averages around 14.1hh.

Samhan

Raw boned, large, muscular, light in front heavy behind. Plain head.

Seglawi or Saqlawi

Picture the breed standard as depicted by GB Edwards (my reference of course). "This is the most feminine and elegant; the ideal showhorse. Compares in refinement with the five gaited Kentucky saddlehorse.

Upright in front, high tail carriage. Not good for endurance. Very high-spirited." The quotation marks are there as it is verbatim, no interpretation on my part.

Now he goes on to say that Seglawi travel closer together with their hocks than Kuhaylan. But Mr. Raswan thinks this not a fault just typical of all show types. The mares are uncomfortable to ride according to Raswan since they are "wider at the hips and narrower at the shoulders therefore the riders unconsciously prefer stallions". They are light boned wide chested with enough hindquarter and beautiful "floaty" trots. (So, think *Nabor for instance).

Head: Slightly longer than Kuhailan, very wide forehead, concave nose, fine flaring nostrils, silky skin like Kuhailan and wide jowls but not as wide as Kuhailan (again I refer you to Dr. Cook). The neck is longer than the Kuhailan's but so is the back and the pasterns. The bones are extremely refined. So here we have a type with a plethora of conformational defects; upright carriage, weak pasterns, long backs, mares unbalanced for riding, cowhocked, diva minded and from my own observations often calf-kneed (back at the knee), and we use this as our standard with a little bit of Kuhailan thrown in for measure.

NABOR

Musculine beauty, extremely elegant. Typical Arabian with short heads; broad between very large eyes. The colour is mostly dapple grey but with bays and dark browns also. Average height between 14.2-15hh.

Twaysan

Very handsome, small with good race legs, refined and classic type but not too inbred/ethereal.

Wadnakhursan

A smaller stouter version of the Kuhailan. Height is around 14.1 hh on average.

Carl Raswan was a far flung dreamer with no equine heritage in his veins or body of knowledge except what he studied in University and reading Xenophon and other classical works. Although I have respect for those who avail themselves of all written efforts regarding horses it cannot take the place of simple practical experience and knowledge that is passed along generationally. He was born Carl Reinhard Schmidt and used his agricultural training (specializing in irrigation) to move about and get closer to the desert peoples. He dreamed of finding the perfect horse and believed that he would do so on the desert after watching a Shagya Arabian from afar pawing in the water. He believed this activity to be an acknowledgement of its own reflection and therefore extrapolated that Arabians must be the most intelligent of all the breeds. I find this notion to be romantic. At this epiphany his exposure to horses consisted of his saddle pony.

MORAFIC EGYPTIAN LINES

Schmidt/Raswan romanticized the bedouin people and their way of life and later he and Sheikh Ammer became so close that the other tribal members referred to them as Aziz (the lovers). Raswan found "his" perfect horse in a stallion named Ghazal which Sheikh Ammer later gifted to him. He had quite an exciting life fighting at Gallipoli, suffering a couple of injuries, starving his way through Poland and arriving back at his birthplace, Dresden somewhat of a wreck. In 1921 he moved to California and hooked up with Kellogg and the movie crowd where he doubled in movies and became a self proclaimed authority on Arabian horses.

BASK POLISH LINES

Since nobody knew much of anything about Arabians in America in 1921 it was nicely timed. Later Kellogg sent him to England to buy Arabians from Lady Wentworth where he was given the stallion, Raswan. Raswan (the horse) died in an accident not long after importation and Mr. Schmidt was so upset he changed his name to Raswan proclaiming that the stallion's name must live on forever. The Asil (desertbred, bluestar, bluelist etc.) people especially use the Raswan index as a bible and believe they have kept certain strains pure, yet, whenever they talk about desert types they tend to list only a handful (Kuhailan, Seglawi, Abbayan, Hamdani and Hadban).

Some people have simplistically narrowed the three main types into color categories as well; this group thinks that grey is Seglawi, Bay is Kuhailan and Chestnut is Muniqi or Jilfan which they do not like. Although many desert people apparently spoke of breeding within families and Dr. Skorkowski also claimed this should be pursued Lady Wentworth (another self-proclaimed expert) wrote that it was not necessary and that any race could be crossed with any other. Today it is not possible to stay within families but I have certainly tried to stay within types; Kuhailan, Abu Urkub, Muniqi and Jilfan the racing types, as described above.

BAKARA FRENCH LINES

What we do know for sure are the written records that refer to the early European imports and its clear that the races/strains were freely mixed by European breeders for the most part. All that is available to us now is to simply use Raswan's index as an historical resource but its nice to know that no matter how much propaganda is put out there serious breeders will still study all the historical records, documents and books they can get their hands on and quickly become enlightened that there is more than one type of Arabian; always has been and always will be in spite of the showring's best effort to capture only one. I firmly believe that if not for racing the breed would have few truly good horses to represent it. As race breeders we preserve the most important type for athletic endeavor and true Arabian "type"; a fast, strong warhorse.

So what is the point in listing twenty types of Arabians only to argue for racing? The racing type of Arabian is the truest type in my opinion. Raswan describes the Kuhailan, Jilfan, Abu Urkub and Muniqi as having superb racing attributes and the Kuhailan as the ultimate expression of the desert Arabian so how did we get so far away from this true ideal? If the Arabian is one of the original warhorses then the Kuhailan, Abu Urkub, Jilfan and Muniqi best represent this expression. Yet, they are the most overlooked with the exception of Kuhailan. Racing has brought these types back to life, so the next time a show person tells you that your racehorse doesn't have enough type you can always fire back my favourite response; which type?

MAMMONA RUSSIAN LINES

On a more sombre note, here in Canada registrations are at an all time low and only a handful of people want to race. With harsh economic times it takes even more resolve to stay the course but racing is the best thing we do with our horses and I sincerely hope for the sake of the breed that it continues far into the future. The statistics paint a dismal picture but as one of the last "hold-outs" along with all of you, its important to know that just because an Arabian looks different it cannot be ruled out as purebred since there are so many valid types to chose from. IAHA's so called breed standard and GBE's painting of the "ideal" are extremely subjective and have over-simplified things to the point where breeders are completely misinformed about what an Arabian is. An

FIGUROSO SPANISH LINES

Arabian should not have any standard imposed upon it as it simply a horse with both parents being recognized in the stud book as Arabians. So much emphasis on the head has trained people to believe the complete falsehood that this is the key feature that must be on all Arabians. It is a puerile notion and must be discarded.

ESMETALI TUNISIAN LINES

Whether or not there is any real historical proof that all these strains ever existed in a pure form is irrelevant. What they do help to illustrate is that there were many different types of Arabian on the desert but the true warhorses looked nothing like the modern standard that has been distorted to such an extent with emphasis so much on the head that such a thing as a "wry nose" has been bred in. In all my years as a breeder and seeing hundreds of foals born for many years I have never witnessed such a thing so I can only assume it is the headhunter's fever that has brought about such a bizarre defect. I was taught that the head was something to hang a bridle on and as long as the eye shone with intelligence and the nostrils could take in enough air to run it was just fine. Its the rest of the horse that matters and you start with the feet and work your way up, the head should be the last thing to be analyzed not the first.
